The Little Red Ribbon

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

he little red ribbon, the ring and the rose!
The summertime comes and the summertime goes—
And never a blossom in all the land
As white as the gleam of her beckoning hand!

THE long winter months, and the glare of the snow;
The little red ribbon, the ring and the rose!
And never a glimmer of sun in the skies
As bright as the light of her glorious eyes!

DREAMS only are true; but they fade and are gone,
For her face is not here when I waken at dawn;
The little red ribbon, the ring and the rose
Mine only: hers only the dream and repose.

I am weary of waiting, and weary of tears,
And my heart wearies, too, all these desolate years,
Moaning over the one only song that I know:
The little red ribbon, the ring and the rose!

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

The Cheltenham Township Commissioners held a special meeting on Monday night when the following set of resolutions was adopted:

Township Building, Ogontz, April 27, 1912.

A special meeting of the Township Commissioners was held this evening for the purpose of taking action on the death of our honored president, George D. Widener.

Roll call and the following members present: Messrs. Schellenger, Stahl, Scott, Miller and McCreary.

On motion of Mr. Stahl, seconded by Mr. Miller, the following minutes were read and approved:

George D. Widener was elected to membership in the Board upon the creation of this Township into a Township of the First Class on March 5th, 1906, and was his own successor at every election since. He became President of the Board on March 7th, 1904, and held office to his death. He presided for the last time at the meeting of the Board on March 5th, 1912.

He perished April 15th, 1912, with the sinking of the steamship Titanic, wrecked by an iceberg off the Newfoundland banks on his return trip from Europe.

The people of the Township made no mistake when they elected Mr. Widener a Commissioner. He had been trained by his long experience in the active management of large affairs. He was endowed with the rare gift of unusual executive ability.

His master mind was potent in shaping the policy and methods to be followed under the new form of government for the Township, and in all the development and improvement of municipal affairs since his clear judgment and wise counsel were a mainstay to his colleagues.

He was quick to suggest the solution of the many perplexing questions coming from the Board. He saw what should be done and the practical way of doing it.

A man of positive convictions, he was ever ready to yield to the judgment of his colleagues.

He held broad views of Township affairs. He had regard to its future as well as its present. No citizen so humble that he did not receive a kindly and patient hearing. He was eminently fair to all.

Sella's interest never wavered from his Township improvement. He always had the general good of the Township in mind.

Courtesy and kindness were a part of his nature, but he was swift and decisive in what was unkindly.

He had great pride in the Township of Cheltenham. He devoted generously his time and labor to the good of the Township.

He died the knightly gentleman he was. Amid the horrors of a sinking ship, he, self-contained, unafraid, directed, assisted and impelled the embarkings of the women and children until the last life boat had cleared the vessel, and was a smiling good by to his rescued wife in the distance.

He, with his son, Harry, and many others, went down to his glorious burial in the North Atlantic.

On motion it was agreed that a copy of this publication in the Times Chronicle and the Hatboro Spirit.

No further business being offered, the Board on motion adjourned.

EDWIN LINSION, Secretary.

For several days Janitor Birch was being condemned for not having his flag up same as all the other schools, but this was on account of the rope being broken during the high weather last winter.

Cheltenham township is plunged into mourning over the death of George D. Widener and his son, Mr. Widener, who was interested in every good cause and so much public interest in all that was going on about him, will be missed by more than any one other person in this section.

The Township building, at Ogontz, is positively draped in crape; the people of the township, have their badges draped with crape, and the public schools throughout the township have their flags at half mast.

George N. Elkins and George D. Widener, Jr., accompanied by Captain John H. Tyeon, of the York road fire company, arrived on Tuesday, Thursday and are awaiting the hearing before the Board on Wednesday.

Latest reports have the body of Mr. Widener. If this is so, the body will be brought directly to Ogontz for burial.

There are several names mentioned to fill the vacancy in the Board of Township commissioners by the death of George D. Widener. According to the law the filling of the vacancy is up to the Montgomery County Court and if no action is taken within thirty days by the court then the Board fills its own vacancy. It is necessary for each applicant to present a petition to the court with two or more names of qualified voters of the township. Those who are already talked of are Dr. J. Fredrickson, of the W. W. Boaler, Ralph Blum and Clement B. Hoopes.

COURT FINDS NO EVIDENCE OF FRAUD IN POWNALL CASE

Discharges Rule Granted on Petition of Martha M. Bickel—Judgment Was Confessed for Benefit of Bona Fide Creditors.

Judge William C. Ryan, at Doylestown, heard testimony, Sunday, upon the rule granted upon petition of Martha M. Bickel to have the Court set aside the judgment confessed by Dr. E. E. Pownall, of Richboro, to Wesley J. Pownall, as trustee for the doctor's creditors.

It was alleged by the petitioner that Dr. Pownall confessed judgment to defraud heirs of the late Charles Bickel, who had recently gotten a decree from the Supreme Court directing the defendant to refund certain money gotten from a farm.

Dr. Pownall was cross-examined and showed that he had confessed judgment for the benefit of eight creditors. Notes and other evidence that the debts were bona fide were shown. The Court held that there was no evidence of fraud and discharged the rule, placed the costs on the petitioner and directed the sheriff to proceed with the execution.

FRIENDS' FIRST-DAY SCHOOL
UNION.

A very well attended and helpful meeting of the Friends' First-day School union was held Thursday of last week, at Gwynedd, when all the schools—Norritown, Abington, Horsham, Gwynedd, Plymouth and Richboro—were represented by delegates.

A number of pleasing exercises and recitations, by the children, and the papers read by Ambler, of Abington, and Miss Longsdorf, of Plymouth, were much enjoyed by all present. The next meeting of the union will be held at Abington in October.

Mrs. Hallie Scott "Mother's Work."

Rev. H. R. Furbeck will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday, after which he will go to his new field of work at Ansonia, Conn. The Reformed church pulpit will be supplied from the first Sunday in May until a pastor is called.

By the death of Amos Tomlinson, the village has lost one of its most prominent citizens. His funeral was held on Thursday morning and was largely attended. He was a member of Delancey Lodge, K. of P. of Newtown. Interment was made at Richboro cemetery.

Mrs. Samuel Yundt has returned home after visiting her father, who is seriously ill at his home in Delaware.

Miss Agnes Yerkes, of Southampton, who has been substituting in the borough schools, is ill with typhoid fever.

The dancing school closed on Tuesday evening last for the season and the prize waltz was won by Carrie Putz and William Schodell.

The boys of the borough school are preparing a play entitled "Two Bad Boys," which they will give to the hall on the evening of April 27th.

The proceeds are for the benefit of the Ivyland Branch of the Needlework Guild.

Samuel E. Fetter, aged 89 years, while walking under the drive shed at his home fell face down, and a large stone in front of the entry door, cutting a gash over the left eye, and a smaller cut under the right eye. His right leg was broken and he was considerably injured.

While Gough avenue is being graded and graded to be macadamized, the rights are all in a trench, mostly at the lower end of the street, while the upper part is in a dangerous condition for teams and people afoot. One woman has already had a fall but was not seriously hurt. The lanterns should be placed at the length of the street as all parts of it is traveled. Not even a street light lit on some of the dark and rainy nights.

FIREMEN ELECT OFFICERS.

Twelve Companies Are Pleased With Motor Type of Apparatus.

These officials have been elected by the Montgomery County Volunteer Firemen's Association, an organization of fire companies in the Old York road and North Penn towns:

President—Paul Jones, of Hattboro.
Vice president—Andrew Graham, of Jenkintown.
Treasurer—William J. Devine, of Ambler.

Secretaries—H. A. Foster, of Glenside, and J. Norman Cline, of Jenkintown.

Fourteen recent fire alarms with one to five companies in active service at each, have shown the value of the automobile type of fire apparatus, the heads of the companies say.

While the driver was delivering bread to one of the houses on Bell Mill road, Flourtown, Thursday, a pair of horses belonging to the Hattboro Baking Company ran away and were not caught until they had gone almost a mile. The animals were heavily injured and the front of the wagon damaged.

Davisville—Southampton

Another collection of old newspapers and magazines will be made early in the coming week by fire company.

The Southampton base ball team, on Saturday, April 27, will play a practice game with Fox Chase team at Fox Chase. The boys would like to have you attend.

The Aid Society of the Davisville church held a social at the home of Miss Carrie Heaton last Wednesday evening.

The evening was spent with games and refreshments. The following program was rendered: Singing by the society; devotional exercises by Rev. A. W. Anderson; piano solo, Miss Phoebe Twining; recitation, Miss Carrie Heaton; reading, A. W. Severn; newspaper clipping, H. M. Leedom; piano duet, Mrs. H. Wolf and Miss Heaton.

The baseball club is rapidly getting their arrangements completed for the season of 1912. On May 11th the greatest vanderville above ever given in this vicinity will be held at Fitzpatrick hall, proceeds of which will be applied to necessary expenses of baseball game.

The vanderville program will consist of singing of popular songs, one-act sketches and plenty of good music, concluding with a dance. Remember that Southampton baseball club in the past have always given a very enjoyable entertainment and can be counted on to give everyone full value for price of admission. Tickets will be for sale at Miss Emma Saurman's store.

The last performance of the Jim Burley drama was given at Fox Chase last Saturday evening, before an audience which filled the Assembly hall to its full capacity. Total net earnings of the play for all performances amounted to $411, leaving a balance towards building and lot of $37.

Amount paid on lot. It is remarkable that such a large company has held together so long and this point has been commented on by every audience who has witnessed the performance. Another feature which the fire company can congratulate themselves on is the fact that only $58 of the $411 was taken out of Southampton. Next fall another play will be taken around a much larger circuit, and as Southampton talent has been well advertised, large receipts will no doubt be realized wherever they go. The first meeting of committees to arrange specifications for building was held at the home of Harry Parker, member of the committee, and rapid progress was made. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening at the home of Mr. Noe.

CHOIR SINGER DIES SUDDENLY.
Taken ill in Church, His Life Ends in Rectory.

J. L. Broughton, 55 years old, of 617 Stenton avenue, Germantown, was taken ill from an apoplectic stroke while at the Episcopal church of the House of Prayer, at Church Lane and Lincolnton pike, Branchtown, last Sunday night, and died at the rectory shortly afterward.

He was a member of the church choir, and was noted for his vocal ability as a soloist. He was a foreman in Dobson & Son's Germantown mill.

UNCOMMON TREES.

So many beautiful trees, some of them not common in this locality, are to be found in Vernon Park, Germantown, that members of the Germantown Horticultural Society have started a movement to have the trees labeled, believing that would constitute an interesting educational feature.

The presence of these trees is due to the fact that originally Vernon Park was the old Vernon estate, where John Water and his son of the same name dwelt for about 80 years. The Water family took great pride in their grounds, and collected many rare and noteworthy specimens of trees. A large number of these were removed when the Park was created, though some remain among them being such trees as the holly, the pawpaw, the coffee tree, the magnolia, the box tree and the yew.

In addition to oaks, beeches, buttonwoods, willows and the more common kinds. To insure a growth of hard-wood trees for the future in the park, the Germantown Business Men's Association has just had 18 young oaks, beeches, hawthorn and walnut trees planted there.

On Monday the Philadelphia Suburban Gas Company started to fill its large gas holders at Oreland.

The average man would go through anything for the woman he loves, especially her fortune.

Thy April Convention of the North Penn C. E. union was held Friday in the Montgomery Baptist church, Colmar.

W. Frazer Harrison on Monday received at his farm near Oreland, his $5000 Percheron stallion, which he purchased in Columbus, Ohio.

The Wrightstown Farmers' Club will meet on May 7th at the home of Dr. John B. Roseberger, instead of on April 29th at the home of Dr. E. F. Farber Davis.

The regular meeting of Pineville Grange will be held in Pineville hall on Monday evening, April 29th, at 7:30 o'clock, when a class of new members will be initiated.

A property owner at Branchtown has just made the profitable sale of walnut trees. The Branchtown trees, seven in number and all full grown, stood in the rear of an operation on new dwelling on Spots street.

A Wilmington exporter of walnut timber paid $400 for the trees, and he has cut them down preparatory to shipping the logs to Germany. Walnut timber is in demand there for making furniture and for veneering. The cause of the high prices paid for the timber walnut trees are growing scarce in Eastern Pennsylvania.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY COUNTRY WOMAN

My Dear Spirit Readers:-

Your hearts have been so singularly touched this past week by the tragic loss of so many brave men and women, in a way that would seem so unnecessary that the ordinary things of life, such as dress and food, seem too trivial to discuss. However, deeply as we mourn for those lost and sympathize with those left, we are still confronted with the three-meal-a-day question as well as what-shall-I-wear? So I will send you a few of the newest ideas I have found among the best stores and dressmakers, hoping some of my readers will be benefited.

The foulard frocks simply made and unlined, makes the pleasantest wearing warm weather garment there is. So many foulards are now seen on the counters in our city stores at Anderson's and elsewhere. Made up at home with a bit of good lace or hand embroidery, the results are of the best for style and comfort. Always remember the keynote of these dresses is simplicity. I have written in a previous letter of the indispensable coat suit and will now add some ideas of lingerie waists to be worn with these suits. For a year or two past white waists have seemed to be passe but once again they have come into their own.

WHITE BLOUSE STYLES.

The everyday blouse is made of marquisette, of scrim, and is quite a new and satisfactory material for waists—of handkerchief linen, of Paris muslin and of French nainsook. The linen ones are not as popular as they were, because they are so difficult to keep smooth.

The ornamental blouses are sometimes fastened down the back, but the everyday ones are fastened up the front. Crochet, pearl and crystal buttons are again used, and the frill has not departed, as was promised. It is not as wide as it was last summer and is sharply graded off before it reaches the waist line. It is made of the material and edged with lace or buttonhole scallops.

The kimono sleeve has given way to the long plain one, which is put into an armhole that hangs well below its normal position. Yet sometimes the sleeves really begin as Oriental, then change their minds after they have gone for four inches and decide to become mid-Victorian. The armhole is not obscure; it draws attention to itself, as though it were pleased with its new position.

While there are many three-quarter sleeves in the new blouses, the smart ones all show long sleeves that fit the arms closely for five inches above the wrist. This is done by a cuff or by vertical tucks that hold in the material. There is a small turnover cuff as a finish, which does not always have link buttons. The sleeve itself has a row of buttons up the back, and when it is ornamental there is a two-inch ruffle at the side of these buttons which is of lace or scalloped muslin.

There was some uncertainty earlier in the year as to whether the blouse would be made to sag again over the belt. This was the fashion of other years that was with a vengeance. It has no part and parcel with the styles of today, and it was useless to try and revive it. The exception shirt blouse is in favor, although it is not as high as it was last summer, and narrow fancy belts are worn.

One of the foreign ideas that many women have carried out is to have a low, serviceable lining made in with the shirtwaist. This is not new, as the French always used it when they first began to make blouses, but it is said to be satisfactory. It may be of wash silk, of coarse net, or of thin muslin; it is cut in a deep square back and front, with narrow straps of binding over the shoulder.

A CANTY BELT.

With the promise of a partially restored waist line, the girl who likes to embroider can fashion for herself one of the new belts of leather.

One of these is ivory white leather of a thin grade is embroidered with a narrow scroll design in tiny gold beads. The leather is also tooled with gold. These belts may have the edges turned back and stitched, but are firm, especially the suede ones, if lined with a heavy silk.

CROCHET BUCKLE.

Why not make for yourself a belt buckle of Irish lace? Any oval or oblong shape may be used for a foundation, or a shape can be cut from heavy cardboard, with sides sewed on the under side when finished.

The foundation is covered first with a layer of cotton wadding, then with black or white silk, according to the outside.

The separate flowers are first crocheted, then a shaped background of the open-work stitch just big enough to cover the buckles neatly. This is crocheted tightly over the covered belt buckle and sewed with tiny stitches.

CROCHETED BELTS.

These belts, which may be made any width or color, are usually crocheted from D. M. C. white cotton No. 6, about a hank being needed for a belt.

Know the buckle to be used with the belt and gauge the width accordingly. Use a solid crochet stitch or, what is newer, every third stitch, instead of taking the upper stitches as in regular single crochet, go into the heart of the stitch. This makes a more open effect and is not hard to do.

Use a fine needle and crochet firmly, so the belt does not stretch so much in laundering. The chief advantage of the belts is, they can be tubbed every day if soiled.

CULINARY HINTS.

Don't throw celery tops away. Dry them in a cool oven. Keep in a covered jar and use for flavoring soups or gravies. When the flavor is strong enough, dip or strain them out.

One reason why the flour in the bottom of the barrel is damp, is because the barrel sets too close to the floor. Raise it an inch or two and you will not be troubled in that way any more.

Ever had the raisins in your cake sink right to the bottom? Of course you have! Just roll them in flour before you put them in the batter and see if that doesn't help. If not, your batter is too thin.

Orange fritters are as delicious an accompaniment to broiled or fried ham as apple sauce to spare ribs.

When beating eggs separately, beat the whites first and then add a teaspoonful of the beaten whites to the yolks soon after starting to beat them and they will not stick to the egg beater and will grow lighter much quicker than when beaten without the addition of the bit of beaten whites.

Letters to the Editor

The SPIRIT invites letters. It is not necessary that the views of the writers coincide with the opinions of the editor, but they must be from persons of sane mind and good faith. The writer's name and address must be given, to be printed or not, as desired.

THE BROWN'S FOLLY LEGEND.

Editor Public Spirit:—

I feel a degree of responsibility for the "Brown's Folly" story, for I repeated it to the author of the paper, read at the club and printed in the SPIRIT. After reading the scolding of the Doylestown attorney I hastened to the old lady from whom I learned it. She told me all she had said had been in good faith, though not of her personal knowledge, her informant is no longer living—was the wife of a minister once stationed in that neighborhood (not very near) and was supposedly reliable. The old lady went on to say the account of her own visit to the place, given by the writer was correct.

This is by no means a controversy, I not only know nothing about the matter, but would be absolutely indifferent if only for the sake of the club, I want to assure your readers that the tale was repeated in good faith.

We will let the story go with the tale of William Tell that some other attorney has discredited.

ONE OF THE NEIGHBORS.

HATBORO W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the Hatboro W. C. T. U. met at the Sunday school room of the Methodist church on Thursday, April 19th at 2 p. m. On account of the inclement weather only a few were present. The members sang "Abide With Me" with Mrs. G. C. Yerkes at the organ. The president announced that the annual meeting of the County W. C. T. U. would be held at Collegeville, Pa., May 22nd, 1912. All invited but this union will be expected to send delegates. Mrs. Scholtz will attend the next meeting of the Hatboro branch, May 16th and give an address. An invitation was extended to the Hatboro W. C. T. U. to attend the meeting of "The Neighbors" April 30th.

The subject of "The Army Canteen" was referred to Mrs. D. Jeanette Stuart to explain at the next meeting. Mrs. Florence Gracem then addressed the meeting, urging all to guide the young people aright, teaching them to have pure thoughts and to lead pure lives. She distributed a number of leaflets on the subject of purity, temperance and the anti-cigarette league. Six members were present and two visitors.

THE NEIGHBORS

The Women's Club Discusses Various Topics.

"The Neighbors" of Hatboro, met on Saturday, April 20th, 1912. After the opening silence and minutes, the president announced that invitations to reciprocity meetings had been received from Malvern and Phoenixville and two delegates and two alternates were appointed for each. The delegates to Easton were then called on to report and Mrs. S. H. Jarrett gave a full account of an interesting and profitable meeting supplemented by remarks by Miss M. E. Gossiner and Mrs. Alice Wood. A vocal solo by Mrs. Jean Nillock Ambler, followed, which was enjoyed.

The committee in charge of the subject "State Reformatory for Women" was not able to be present, but sent representatives. Mrs. Carrie Mather read extracts from a pamphlet, describing the Keosau Association. Mrs. Anna H. Penrose read a paper on the same subject, prepared by Mrs. Clara Waus. Dr. J. B. Carroll presented a very interesting paper on "A Home for Inebriates" in which he showed how valuable such an institution could be in treating this disease for a disease it really is. He believes many inebriates could be cured. After closing he presented to the members of the club copies of his address read before the Philadelphia County Medical Society January 8, 1908, on the subject "Why Pennsylvania Should Build, Equip and Maintain a Hospital for the Inebriate, Care and Treatment of Inebriates and What the Hospital Should Be." Remarks were made by Rev. F. C. Colby, who spoke strongly in favor of such an institution. A vocal solo "Daffodils" was given by Mrs. Ambler and the meeting adjourned until May 4th, which will be on the subject of Nature and her teachings.

Philadelphia Theatres

"A WILD GOOSE."

The success achieved by Willard Spencer's new opera "A Wild Goose" has surpassed the fondest expectations of Manager Fred C. Witney, of New York, who made the production.

"A Wild Goose" received its first presentation at the Lyric Theatre, in Philadelphia last Monday night, to a house which was made up of the very best class of theatregoers to be found in the Quaker city.

Five years have elapsed since a Spencer opera has been sung in Philadelphia and the warm welcome which was given to "A Wild Goose" insures its continuance until extreme hot weather.

Individual hits were made by Ethel Jackson, in the role of Princess Violetta; Will Philbrick as Turnip; Mabel Weeks as Miss Van Rensselaer; George Richards as Captain Roberts; Greta Hiley as Amarilla; Frank Belcher as General Jinks, U. S. A.; John Mayon in the character of Corporal Putz, U. S. A.; and David Reese as the lover, Dick.

Minor roles were splendidly portrayed by Harrison Garrett, Bernard Nian, Fred C. Holmes, Jack Holden and others. A chorus of 50 beautiful girls and handsome young men render the choruses of "A Wild Goose" in a stirring manner. Manager Whitney has staged the opera splendidly. The two scenes shown being a watering place on the Jersey Coast with a view of the sea and lights in the background. The royal residence of the Princess Violetta in Rudelet, Austria. The expert in the groupings, dances and stage business and to musical director Frank Paré, credit must be given for the splendid conducting of the opera. Musical matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

"MAMA'S BABY BOY."

An announcement which will cause a great deal of surprise to our readers is that George W. Lederer's rip-roaring, music riot entitled "Mama's Baby Boy" will be presented at one of the Shubert Theatres in Philadelphia, opening next Monday night, the intention being to keep the theatre on the verge of the most extreme hot weather prevents. For this engagement a special scale of prices has been arranged for between the Messrs. Shubert and Manager George W. Lederer.

The night scale will range from 25c to $1.00 and at matinees the house will be sold at prices ranging from 25c to 50c. There will be three matinees a week, namely, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. This is a radical change in policy for any first class theatre and likewise for an attraction as big as "Mama's Baby Boy" which Mr. Lederer is bringing to Philadelphia.

The artists who have been engaged to appear in "Mama's Baby Boy" number 45. Among the principals may be mentioned McVetters & Tyson, Gertrude Carls, Maurice the Farisian dancer and Cabaret singer, Junie McCree and half a dozen other well known theatrical stars. The production will be staged in three acts and a chorus of fifty voices and an augmented orchestra will be in evidence. Philadelphia daily papers should be watched for the name of the theatre in which this elaborate musical organization will appear.

MAGAZINES

THE MAY CENTURY.

Readers of the May Century will find in the number authoritative papers on some of the most pressing questions of the day, such as the call of judges, the tariff and American trade, the remarkable advance of Persian women and their share in the country's recent crisis, Chicago's rapid growth and significant civic development, and improved methods in New York's police courts.

From Edward Alworth Ross's "The Middle West" in the May Century the following is taken:

"Strong in the old-American spirit, the Middle West seems to be solving the social problem by preaching the 'trusteeship of wealth' or exhorting Dives to regard himself as a 'steward.' Aware of what H. G. Wells calls 'the secular extinction of opportunity,' it is not to be reconciled to social stratification by any amount of 'welfare' work in the mills or of 'social work' in the tenements. It knows philanthropy is good, but thinks that the linchpins of society ought to be right and the spirit of unselfishness rather than gifts and the spirit of kindness. Less advanced in accumulation the East, it puts the welfare of people above the rights of property and anxiously legislates for conditions that will conserve the manhood of the working man."

THE MAY AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

Probably the most important article in the May American Magazine is a complete and dispassionate account of the great strike at Lawrence written by Ray Stannard Baker. Another important contribution is a statement of the relations between Taft and Roosevelt, contributed by William Allen White, under the title, "Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgotten?" Other articles are: "Frank Fink That Have Decided Baseball Championships," by Hugh S. Pulleton; "The New Stagecraft," by Walter Prichard Eaton; "La Follette's Autobiography," and "The Irresponsible Woman and the Friendless Child," by Ida M. Tarbell.

Notable among the pieces of short fiction in the number are: "Bringing the Years," by Kathleen Norris, author of "Mother;" "His Upward Step," by Marion Hill, and "The Man Who Knew Life," by Philip G. Dierkes. In the "Interesting People" department there are two unusual short articles, one about N. C. Hanks, a signless, armless lecturer who made a great success in the world after one of the most horrible catastrophes that ever happened to a man. There is also an account of James A. Durkin, the most famous oyster boy in the world, in the office of a great Chicago daily he has been for years the universal encyclopedia, and author of money-making. The story of Jimmy Durkin is good, amusing reading.

ENDURANCE OF STEEL RAILS.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the wreck which resulted in 29 deaths on the Lehigh Valley Railroad near Manchester, N. Y., last fall, should be in the hands of every engineer having anything to do with railroad material, declares the May Popular Mechanics Magazine, in an interesting illustrated article. The investigation seems to show that the limit of endurance of steel rails has been reached or exceeded.

The wrecked train consisted of 14 cars, drawn by two locomotives. All the equipment of the train was carefully inspected immediately after the accident and both of the locomotives handling it were very thoroughly examined. The examination failed to disclose any defective condition of equipment that in any way contributed to the accident, and all wheels and flanges were found to be in perfect condition. The two locomotives and first five cars of the train were not derailed, which shows that the rail was not broken before the train started over it.

The rail which went to pieces under the train was a "30-lb. Am. Soc. C. E. section," rolled from basic open-hearth steel and was 24 feet long, having been cut down from its original length of 50 feet. After the accident it was found that the rail had been broken into many pieces, the first being 31 inches in length, the next 27 inches, the next 22 inches, etc. Seven pieces were found, but a part of it could not be located. The tests subsequently made show that it was defective, being known as a piped rail, a condition due to slag originating in the steel furnace.

SON AND GRANDSON'S DROWN.

Messages received on Monday by James W. Van Billard, Burgess of North Wales, indicated that there is little hope for the safety of his son, Austin Van Billard, and two grandchildren, who were passengers on the Titanic, and who are believed to have perished. The White Star Line sent a telegram to the Burgess, telling him that his grandchildren are not among the survivors. The New York immigrant station sent a similar message.
